Aw Snap: We look at the Solar Raceway wire management solution

New York Manufacturing actively sought out feedback from dozens of solar installers, electricians and roofing experts. Based on the industry's input, the company started to piece together a solution. The number one feature sought out was the ability to have an open tray, drop-in system. While electricians and installers love their job, they do not enjoy the hurdles of pulling wires. Electricians also expressed a need to armor wires from damage whether it be physical, weather or pesky rodents. The result of these conversations was, Solar Raceway, has grown to become a complete wire management solution for the solar industry. Let's look and see how it addresses the issues.
